COUPLES: what's your financial forecast?

Advice by Paige Christenberry
& Cathleen Ringo with Regions Bank

Before starting your life together and embarking on your happily ever after, it is important to lay down the facts and speak openly about finances, expectations and long-term financial goals.

WHERE'S YOUR MONEY AT?

Talk about what your current financial situations are and your individual money styles. Oftentimes a marriage will have one spender and one saver, but you need to know what to expect and how to plan accordingly.

TO PRENUP OR NOT TO PRENUP?

If it's a fit, a prenup can help take at least some financial surprises out of your marriage. When considering a prenuptial agreement, honesty is the best policy and make sure to consult with a qualified attorney.

INVEST IN YOUR FUTURE

Try to take a businesslike approach to investment planning, even though it's difficult to separate emotion from money. Try to understand where your spouse's attitude about spending and saving comes from and take each other's comfort zones into account.
